KNIGHTS PARADE!

Nearly 5,000 Uniformed Men With Over Thirty Bands In the Line

THE WEATHER WAS FINE

MAYOR FOREMAN MADE ADDRESS

Williamsport, Pa. May 24.—Delightfully cool weather with bright sunshine made an ideal parade day for the state Knights Templar, who were here in annual conclave. There were nearly 3 000 uniformed men in line, with over thirty bands distributed throughout the formation. A countermarch review was held by the grand commandery officers. Following the parade massed bands of over 1,100 players marched in review, playing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

At 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the grand commandery met in the auditorium of the Scottish Rite cathedral. Mayor Seth T. Foreman deliver the address of welcome which was responded to by Grand Senior Warden William J. Milligan, of Mary commandery, of Philadelphia. The balance of the session was behind closed doors. At 2 o'clock the visiting ladies were given a carriage ride over some of the beautiful drives of the city. Forty carriages were used, each making two trips. At 4 o'clock an automobile ride was given the ladies.

The Howard Temple club kept open house all afternoon and evening and was constantly crowded. Monday evening the Repaz Twelfth regiment band gave an open air concert in front of the Scottish Rite cathedral. At 8 o'clock a reception was given to the grand commandery in the commander-in-chief's room at the cathedral and in the cathedral auditorium a concert wes given by the Imperial Teteques Masonic band of this city, the Templar quintette, of Pittsburg, No. 1. Mr. Roscoe Huff, organ. Mr. Charles E, Krape, cello and Edmund Brown, piper, tenor.

In the banquet room of the cathedral and in the lodge room of the Masonic temple dancing was the programme, while refreshments were served in the banquet hall of the temple. These buildings are connected by overhead passageways, so that the guests could go from one to the other without going outside.

Wednesday morning the grand commandery resumed its sessions. At 10 o'clock officers were elected and at 2:30 p. m, they were installed. There was but one contest, that for the office of grand junior warden, John F. Laedlein, of Williamsport, was elected. Hon. William F. Diehl, of Pittsburg was elected grand commander, and Pittsburg selected for the next conclave.

A Project for Saving Niagara Falls.

Dam Niagara, drown the White Horse Rapids, fill up the whirlpool, raise the water level in the gorge 100 feet, change the river into a storage reservoir from the foot of the cataract to the brow of the escarpment and 1,500,000 electric horse power may be developed at Lewiston. When this power is not in use a third cataract will be created, with the combined charge of both the American and the Horse Shoe Falls flowing over a dam 100 feet high between Lewiston and Queenston. At this dam fully 60 per cent. of the energy of 222,000 cubic feet of water per second falling 100 feet and developing 2,500,000 horse power may be transformed into electric current. A dam about 100 feet high, corresponding to the drop of the river surface from the foot of Niagara Falls to Lewiston, 5 miles below, would work no substantial injury either to the natural falls or to the existing power plants. Those who have enjoyed the wild scenery of the White Horse Rapids at close range will be loth to give them up, but when the hard alternative is to drown these rapids or dry up the American Falls, the former seems much the less of the two evils.

Farmers' Institutes.

The County Board of Farmers' Institute Managers, will meet at the County Commissioners' office on the second Tuesday of June, to arrange for the place where Institutes are to be held this season. All of our people who desire Institutes, ought to attend this meeting and present their claims. This Board is composed of the Local members of the State Board of Agriculture, and one representative from each County Agricultural Society, the Pomona Grange and County Alliance, If you find that you cannot attend this meeting, address a letter with your request to John A. Woodward, Chairman of Board of Institute Managers, Howard, Pa., care of County Commissioners

Former Howard Man Dead.

We have received word that our former townsman Mr. Jacob R. Leathers who a few years ago left here for Chicago, died on Monday May 15, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Stevenson, at Cleveland, Ohio, and was buried at that place Wednesday of last week. He was a patient sufferer from paralysis for some time. He was aged 83 years.—Howard Hustler.

A Dolls Bazaar.

The first week in Nov. a dolls bazaar will be held where dolls of every description and all their "paraphernalia" will be on hand in good time for Xmas. It will be something out of the ordinary and a great help to those who are too busy to go into the details of a dolls ward-robe.

Canny John Sherman.

The late Secretary John Sherman showed his talent for financiering at an early age. He and two of his brothers had been given a sum of money with which to pay their board while on a shooting trip for a week at the house of a farmer near Lancaster, O., their home.

The week ended, John ordered the wagon and paid his board. But the farmer refused the money, saying that the sons of Judge Sherman would always be welcome guests. When John found that he did not have to pay his board he sent the wagon back to the barn and stayed another week.—Lippincott's.

Discussion Over the Proposed Lease of the City's Gas Works Grows in Bitterness.

WILL BE CARRIED TO THE POLLS

Philadelphia, May 24.—In his effort to defeat the consummation of the plan to lease the city gas works to the United Gas Improvement company for seventy-five years for $25,000,000, Mayor Weaver Tuesday dismissed from office the two principal members of his cabinet and thereby delivered a staggering blow to the dominant political organization of this city, which has caused probably the greatest sensation in the history of Philadelphia municipal affairs. While the citizens were expecting some sort of a move on the part of the Mayor, they were not prepared for the immediate removal from office of David J. Smyth, the Director of the Department of Public Safety, and Peter E. Costello, the Director of the Department of Public Works

NAME OF THEIR SUCCESSORS.

After the removals had been announced the Mayor made public the names of the men he had selected for the places. They are Colonel Sheldom Potter, to fill the office of Director of Public Safety, ad interim, and A. Lincoln Acker, to be Director of the Department of Public Works, ad interim.

The fight over the form of the resignation was an important one, in that the new directors can only be qualified by the confirmation of councils, which is controlled by the organization. The Department of Public Safety has charge of the police and fire bureaus, electrical bureau, prisons, building inspectors, boiler inspectors, city property and inspectors of fire escapes. The bureaus, of gas, highways, lightning, surveys, street cleaning, water and city ice boats are under the supervision of the Department of Public works. Each director receives $10,000 a year and together they have control of 10,000 officeholders.

OTHER CHANGES MAY BE MADE

While the Mayor refuses to say what his future action will be regarding other office holders who oppose him, it is believed that he is not yet through with his work in this direction. There is much uneasiness displayed by thousands of the office holders lest they be caught in the political vortex. The new directors refuse to say what plans they have mapped out, and until they make some announcement the political situation will remain in a choatic state. Some of the organization leaders fear that many of the office holders will side with the Mayor and thus weaken the organization forces. Thomas Dugan, the present Coroner, who failed of re-nomination was the center of much interest. It was rumored that he had joined forces with Mayor Weaver and removed two men from his office who are members of councils, and who voted for the gas lease. He denied that he had taken any action and refused to say what he was going to do.

Mrs Herman Schiele

Mrs. Herman Schiele died at her home in North Philipsburg, nearly opposite the Cottage Hospital Philipsburg, Thursday evening at 4 o'clock, of paralysis of the brain, after an illness of about five weeks.

The deceased, whose age was about 44 years, was the daughter of Robert Hall, of Unionville, this county. Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her sad death one daughter, Miss Bessie May, aged 18 years, including her father, three sisters and one brother. She was a devoted member of the Baptist church, and a most estimable lady, with a large circle of friends who will deeply mourn her death.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Higby, officiating.

Church Re opened.

The United Evangelical Church at Curtin, Pa., which has been extensively improved will be re-opened on June 3 and 4 1905, with services as follows: Saturday 8 p. m, Sunday at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

TAYLOR—CROSS WEDDING.

Our Popular Young Sheriff Wins One of Philipsburg's Charming Young Ladies as His Bride.

On Wednesday, May 17th, at the beautiful home of the bride's aunt, Mrs, Robert Lloyd, on South Centre street, Philipsburg, Miss Bertha Cross was happily united in marriage to Capt. Hugh S. Taylor, of Bellefonte, the present popular young sheriff of our county.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. P. Miller, of the Presbyterian church, in the presence of only the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The wedding was very beautiful and impressive. The bride wore a handsome white crepe de chine gown, over white taffetta silk, and looked very charming.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations, a sumptuous dinner, with Mrs. Clark as cateress, was served. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for a honeymoon trip, after which they returned to Bellefonte.

The bride, who is the youngest daughter of Neal Cross, has for a number of years made her home with her aunt, Mrs. Lloyd, and is one of Philipsburg most highly esteemed and charming young ladies. The groom is too well known to need any word of praise at our hands. We join their many friends in hearty congratulations and best wishes.

Be Courteous at Home.

The habit of treating those who are nearest and dearest to us with discourtesy is one that clouds the sunshine of too many homes. If you are young and looking for your prince, just test his home conduct. Do not be guided in your choice by what a young man is in the parlor; find out what he is in his mother's sitting room. Do not judge him with the way he can tip his hat, but by the way he treats the old, especially his parents. The home where mutual consideration rules is always a happy one, if it be the top flat of a cheap tenement or an adobe hut on the prairies. There should be a certain respect observed in the most intimate relationships. Wives have no more right to search their husband's pockets than they have to take the same liberty with an acquaintance. We have no more right to rob the baby's bank than to force the vault of the national bank. We may hurt the feelings of a society acquaintance and there is no great harm done, beyond an estrangement of two people who care little for each other; but when we stab the kind mother's heart, that loved us with a love next in tenderness to heaven's or wound the sensitive feelings of a brother or sister, life is not long enough to extract the sting from memory. Love's opportunity will soon vanish forever and out through the sunset of life the ones we love dearest and best have flown away like birds to a summer land and our words of endearment are thrust back like voices that beat against a wall of rock.

Invitations to Church Weddings Improper.

While it is a proper custom to issue cards of invitation to attend a church wedding, it is entirely contrary to the teaching understood to be implied by the church edifice. No private family has a right to issue invitation to the "House of God" to witness the performance of a rite within the said house as though for the time being the latter had been given over to them for their own particular use. A wedding in a church is not a private but rather a public rite, at which any parishoner who wishes may be present without any invitation from any one. God's house is at all times a public place of worship, the very spirit of which is utterly opposed to "Cards of invitation"—Church Electic.

Serenade Appreciated.

The Coleville band, which accompanied Hospitaller commandery No. 46 to Williamsport this afternoon arrived at at 10:30 this morning and tendered this office a serenade. The band is one of the best in this section of the state and their music was highly appreciated. They were escorted by Eminent Commander W. H. Klapp.—Monday's Lock Haven Express.

This is the Limit.

The "card of thanks" foolishness touches the limit in the following from one of our exchanges: "We wish to thank the friends who were so kind to us recently, upon the birth of our baby. The doctor, particularly, was kind, and we feel under lasting obligation to the two neighbor women who stayed up with us all night.

The engine that exploded was being tested for its first run after re-building.

Four other engines standing nearby were wrecked.

Asylums Suffer by the Cut.

By the cutting of the appropriations to the insane hospitals throughout the state the Danville asylum will suffer among the others. Conditions at this asylum have been nothing short of disgraceful—not to the management but to the state. It has been necessary to accommodate 400 more patients than the institution was built to harbor, and the excess has been crowded into every place where room could be found. The equipment is inadequate and worn out. The same conditions prevail in other asylumns.

The legislature knew when it ran away leaving in the hands of the governor appropriations millions of dollars in excess of the estimated revenue that these institutions would suffer. For years they have cried out for relief. Money has been found for the creation of commissions and offices galore while the insane have been huddled together like cattle and have been denied the comforts and necessities that this class of patients so much needs.

Fishing on Sunday.

The superior court has handed down a decision that settles a question which has given rise to a wide difference of opinion recently. By some it has been held that there was no law that prevented fishing on Sunday except the so-called "Blue Laws" of 1798. Others have held that provisions and penalties of the game laws of 1878 in regard to Sunday fishing are still in force. In Wyoming county about a yhar ago a justice of the peace fined two defendants $25 each for fishing on Sunday. They each tendered $4 and costs and claimed that was the maximum fine that could be imposed. The justice was obdurate and the defendants appealed. Judge Dunham sustained the justice of the peace and the defendants took the case to the superior court which has just affirmed Judge Dunham's decision.

SHOWMENS' SORROW

John Robinson and His People Remember the Dead of Walter Main Wreck.

Bellefonte will never, never forget the John Robison's 10 big shows. In memory, our citizens will impress it as, "Great, clean, moral, free from gambling." The four sections of their train, numbering sixty cars, arrived over the Pennsylvania railway from Philipsburg at 6 a. m. Sunday. The trip here was free from accident, and goes into historic record as the quickest and most prominent ever made over the Tyrone mountain way.

THE DEAD REMEMBERED.

At 2 a. m. Sunday the monster show train was stopped at the Big Fill near Tyrone, the spot where the Walter L. Main circus was wrecked and the lives of men, women, children, and animals was snuffed out without a moments warning. That was the worst wreck known to the show world. It was awful. It is still fresh in the minds of our citizens and cannot be forgotten by those who live in the realm of the sawdust and the white tops. It is an undying custom with show people to remember their dead. So manager John G. Robinson and his 1000 employees purchased for the scene of the Walter L. Main wreck a car load of flowers. The Pennsylvania Railway Co., joined in and purchased another car load of flowers. When the Robinson show train stopped at Big Fill the show people, 1,000 in number, alighted. The six bands with the show was formed into one and there on the mountain side played appropriate funeral music. The 1000 people sang anthems sacred to the dead. Rev. Sheak, the ordained M. E. minister with the Robinson shows, pronounced the eulogy. He said in part, "At this hour, early in the morning, under the light of the stars, we stand in the presence of a scene that not so long ago was wet with the blood of dear ones. They gave up their lives in the line of duty and died as they lived—fearless and true. Search history, and you will find no character so brave and honor bright as the follower of the 'white tents,' though in outward appearance he or she is rough, and without the adornments of fashion. We now will scatter this sacred spot with flowers and trailing vines moistened with our tears, and say Farewell! Farewell! Farewell! to the precious ones gone before. We loved them living; we love them still." At the conclusion of the eulogy the show people and the train crews placed the flowers and wreathes on the side of the mountain. Today to passengers on the passing trains the spot appears a monument of perfumed roses.

WORK SHOPS AND COOK TENT.

Manager Robinson carries a corps of blacksmiths, wagon makers, painters, harness makers, skilled chefs and table waiters. Each has a tent to themselves; each is a department by itself. The cook tent was a scene that created appetite. There were long rows of tables adorned with rich table ware and when the menu was brought in these tables groaned under the weight of it. The servicee equals that of Delmonico in New York.

Each department of the show has its respective table and each person his regular seat and plate. What is served to the table of the business heads is also found on the table of the razor back, he who drives stakes and unloads canvass.

EXCURSIONS AND PARADE.

The railroad trains brought hundreds to the city on Monday. The hotels and eating houses were packed and the streets lined with out of town visitors. The circus parade moved at 10 a. m. It was two miles in length. The John Robinson shows have given other parades in former days, but their parade Monday morning clearly out done all predecessors. And those of other shows fall into insignifigance when a comparison is made.

AFTERNOON PERFORMANCE.

The crowd at the shows in the afternoon was the largest ever at a tent exhibition in Bellefonte. There were fully 10,000 present. The performance was a series of new, startling, exclusive acts and features. The opening spectacle "King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba," introducing a ballet of beautiful maidens from the Courts of Royalty abroad and the big musical comedies of New York city, was rich in dazzling splendor, catchy dances and bright spectacular action. The trained elephants, horses, ponies, dogs and seals were wonderful. The aerial acts were death-defying. The tumbling, horizontal bar work, contortion and juggling were far above the standard. The performance of James Dutton on a bounding wire high in air is a thrilling feature. His.

CRONK LAID TO REST.

High Honors Paid Last Survivor of War of 1812.

New York, May 20.—New York paid honor, Friday to the late Hiram Cronk, the last soldier of the war of 1812. The body of Hiram Cronk, the last of his army, was taken to Cypress Hill cemetery and interred in Victoria Hill, where 60 of his comrades lie, with full military honors. He was 105 years old. Long lines of New Yorkers, with bared heads, filed past the flower-covered bier on which the dead soldier lay in the city hall Friday morning.

Over 40,000 paid honor to the late veteran Thursday. The casket was closed at 10 Immediately the cortege started for Cypress Hill. Four children, ranging in age from 60 to 82, survive.

Dr: Allison a Lively Corpse.

New York, Northern Pennsylvania newspapers and the medical journals have it that Dr. J. R. G. Allison, of Centre Hall, is dead and in heaven. While he is as near to that place as can be reached in this world, he has yet another step to take before entering the promised land.

The first intimation the family had of Dr. Allison's death was a telephone message. Later telegrams came expressing condolence, letters followed containing expressions of sympathy and offers to buy the doctor's real estate and, of course, the widow's good will. And, lastly, a half dozen marked newspapers, mailed by friends, containing an account of the death, reached the family. Among the latter were the Canton World, published at Canton, Bradford county; the Troy Gazette-Register, published at Troy, Bradford county, and an Elmira, New York, paper.

It yet remains a mystery how the news reached LeRoy, Bradford county, the former home of Dr. Allison, from which place the death notices were sent to the various papers.

It is useless to say that the obituaries were very flattering, and that at first the doctor hesitated to say whether he wished the rumor true or false, because he realized that it wouldn't be fair to his family to wish himself in heaven while he had such a good practice and opportunity to provide for them, and yet he disliked to inform his friends at LeRoy that Centre Hall, in which he lives, is a better place in all respects than many people will be able to enjoy—alive or dead.

Flag Scrap.

The annual tussle between the Sophomore and Freshman classes over the flag of the latter class, came off Tuesday morning May 16th about 7.15 o'clock near the orchard in the rear of the Beta Theta Pi House. It has hitherto been the custom for the Freshman class to raise their flag at day break and if it remained on the pole by the time the eight o'clock Chapel bell rang, the victory belonged to the Freshmen. This year's class sought to evade the long and tedious fighting by raising their flag as close to eight o'clock as possible and when the bell rang claim the victory under the old custom. The Sophomores claimed a reasonable time in which to attack the Freshmen and refused to stop at eight, consequently the scrap went on until both sides had tired themselves out. The Sophs then drew off and agreed that if the Freshmen would unfurl their flag they would quit. This was done and the Sophs then conceded the Freshmen the victory by giving the 1908 yell. The usual casualties and excesses resulted.—State College Times.

Methodist to Build.

The congregation of the Methodist church at State College are leaving no stones unturned in their endeavor to raise the funds for a new church building. The Building Committee is composed of W. C. Patterson, Dr. Glenn and Albert Emerick representing the Board of Trustees, W. W. Smith, H. D. Meek, and F. A. Crosthwaite, representing the congregation, Mr. Heckman is the seventh member of the committee. Quite a number of people are turned away from the church doors every Sunday owing to lack of space to accommodate them, so that not only would a new building be a good thing for the congregation and it standing in the community, but it would also be a great credit to the town. The Methodists will have the good wishes of all and let us hope something more substantial, in their praise worthy efforts.

Traveling is Dangerous,

Constant motion jars the kidneys which are kept in place in the body by delicate attachments This is the reason that travelers, trainmen, street car men, teamsters and all who drive very much, suffer from kidney disease in some form. Foley's Kidney Cure strengthens the kidneys and cures all forms of kidney and bladder disease. Geo. E. Hausan, locomotive engineer, Lima, O, writes, "Constant vibration of the engine caused me a great deal of trouble with my kidneys, and I got no relief until I used Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by C. M. Mr. Valentine's "Hecla Sandwith."

Edward Uffington Valentine has presented in "Hecla Sandwith" a story of American life which will be better appreciated by those interested in the development of our national literature than by the average reader who desires to be entertained and diverted by kinematographic pictures of intense modern life moving swiftly in realistic activity. It is not a book to be skimmed on the subway express or calculated to hold the attention amid the clang of the cable cars, but rather to be read thoughtfully in the fragrance and quiet of a country garden for it is appealingly reminiscent of the old days when authors took time to write really good books and men and women found time to read them. That it is a good book rather than a great one is due mainly to three causes, it deals with a peculiar phase of life not of universal significance, it is concerned with issues no longer of vital and immediate concern and the picture it presents is confused by the introduction of too many figures each well drawn and unique, but distracting the attention rather than deepening the interest in the real meaning of the scene.

There are four pairs of lovers whose affairs the reader is tediously detained to disentangle There are three phases of practical enterprise to follow—the iron industry in the middle of the past century, the development of a mining region, the construction of a great water dam There are diverse opposing connections to harmonize before the conclusion—the faith of the Quakers contrasted with other forms of religious belief, the obligations of a family pride as opposed to the rights of human affection, the stern sense of duty set against the gentler reign of love. And there is a most bewildering array of character types and contrasts—the iron willed iron master, the Quaker prophet and seer, the turbulent work people at the forge. This young author of promise, who has accomplished the literary fusion of a story based upon the life of a young people in a new country, and told—with reverent allegiance to and apparently close study of the traditions and conventions of the old masters of story telling will no doubt have added unto him with the years the gift of judicious and temperate selection—which seems to be the one thing needful in his conscientious literary work.

However, the dominant purpose of the story is apparent in spite of its complexities the evolution of life through the law of duty to the higher law of love; and the dominant figure, Hecla Sandwith, presents a psychological study of character development that stands out clearly and forcibly Hecla Sandwith was the daughter of the iron master and was named for the furnace he owned and upon which the prosperity of the village depended With a rich, powerful nature, endowed with heroic qualities, this girl, thrown too early upon her own mental resources by the death of her mother, shocked into morbid convictions by having the great facts and mysteries of birth and death roughly thrust upon her before she was old enough to comprehend clearly what she was forced to experience actually, and finally burdened with two grave responsibilities by the sudden death of her father in the care of his fortune and of her brothers and sisters, naturally blundered into the ambuscades life holds in reserve for such strong and undisciplined natures. But Hecla Sandwith faced bravely the the defeats and disasters of her misdirected zeal and misguided devotion and entered triumphantly into her woman's kingdom at last as all strong women do. The terms of her surrender are as touchingly simple as anything Jane Austen, the apostle of simplicity, has written, and are embodied in a single phrase to the husband from whom she had fled on her wedding day in morbid terror—"All I ask is that you will take my love and make it worthy of you."

The book "Hecla Sandwith" is not one that the reader will turn to a second time, although it contains some nature studies deserving a second reading, and what is more unusual some good English worthy consideration; but the girl Hecla Sandwith is a literary personality one is glad to have encountered. Had she but one touch of the saving grace of humor which makes Miss Austen's Elizabeth a world favorite Hecla would be included in the list of those book people one desires to claim as friends—the final test of excellence in literary creation. The book is published by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Work on the monument is already well advanced and the putting down of the foundation will be begun at once and pushed right along to completion so that the same can be completed in time for dedication in the early fall.

A Simple Remedy for Acquiring Hard Muscles and a Sound Body.

A number 12 bore gun when loaded with three drams of powder will send a load of shot further and shoot harder than if double this amount of powder is used.

If too much powder is used, all of it will not explode until it leaves the muzzle of the gun.

That portion which does not explode at the proper time, interferes with the direction, and checks the velocity or force of the shot.

Hard muscles and a strong body do not depend on the quantity of food, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation.

If the nutrient properties of all of the food that may be eaten are appropriated by the blood and tissues, the muscles of the body will grow harder and stronger, whether you eat much or little.

You may be well, but not strong. What you want is strength,—physical force.

You do not have to be sick to need Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.

Thousands of men and millions of women have need for just what Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will do for them.

A little Kodol after meals, will enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate every atom of all of the wholesome food that may be eaten.

It will do more.

It will enable the stomach to extract from the food all its nutrient properties, and contribute the same to the blood.

It will enable the blood to circulate freely and deposit a full quota of this tissue-building and strength giving material into every nook, corner, muscle and fibre of your whole being.

The result is perfect strength,
And perfect health.
Disease cannot lay hold on the man or woman whose physical condition is thus fortified. Recommended by Green's Pharmacy Co.

MOTHER OF PEARL.

The Industry of Inlaying It In Precious Woods.

The sole curiosity for sightseers in the city of Hanoi, a town of the French Tonquin, is the industry of inlaying mother of pearl in precious woods. In fact, one street, called the Street of the Inlayers, is given up to the trade. The workmen are genuine artists, combining artistic perception with great manual skill. Furnished with rude tools, but with great patience and skill, these workmen produce articles of great beauty. They have applied the principle of division of labor, or specialization, to their work. The cabinet makers first put together the various parts of the materials to be incrusted. The joining is done without the aid of nails and with a nice system of dovetailing and use of paste, of which lacquer is the base. From this cabinet maker the wood passes into the hands of the designer, who makes sketches for its ornamentation on rice paper.

These designs are transferred to the wood by the inlayer, whose duty it is to choose the pearl that will best serve to bring out the beauty of the design. The mother of pearl is obtained from a large species of shellfish, called casque, caught chiefly upon the shores of the island of Poulocondar.

The inlayer cuts the pieces of pearl into little bits and chooses the combination of colors which will make the contrast necessary for the artistic success of his work. The iridescence is heightened by the use of pearl dust furnished by a kind of mussel taken from the brooks of that region. When the bits of mosaic are chosen the inlayer tries to give them the form of the design chosen and disposes them as a mosaic in the wood. The crude morsel is made translucent by pumice stone. The pearl is then fixed in a vise, and the labor of patience begins. Kneeling before the vise, he shapes the pieces with a file no larger than an ordinary color crayon. When the pearl is shaped it is necessary to trench it in the wood. This is ordinarily done by children fourteen or fifteen years old. The bits of pearl are then set in the grooves and fixed with paste. The whole is gently heated to melt the paste and so fill the interstices. The design is then polished, varnished and given the finishing touches. The work has been counterfeited, but never successfully.—New York Herald.

A plant of alfalfa ten feet from root to tip was grown on the Colorado desert from the seed in seven months under irrigation.

The hired man will take kindly to cleaning up the barnyards when you give him a manure spreader to work with, though he always hated the job done in the old way.

The Cuban reciprocity treaty, or a large supply, has brought around the time when the people are getting twenty pounds of sugar for $1. They ought never to get any less and should get more.

The Four D's.

Charles Spurgeon once said that there were three great enemies to man "dirt, debt and the devil." He might have added one more d and include dypepsia. The evil results of this disease could hardly be exaggerated. It's effects are felt in mind and body, and are as far reaching as the effects of the curse that was laid on the Jackdaw of Rheims which was cursed in "eating and drinking and sleeping in standing and sitting and lying." The good effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are most marked in aggravated and chronic cases of dypepsia. It enables the stomach glands to secrete the necessary quanity of digestive fluids, and this at once removes that craving or gnawing sensation so common to certain forms of indigestion. It tones and regulates the stomach, invigorates the torpid liver and gives the blood making gland keen assimilative power. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures ninety-eight per cent. of those who use it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are supeaior to all other laxative medicines when the bowels are obstructed.

THE DISSATISFIED ONES.

Lives Spoiled by a Fruitless Longing For Other Fields.

Everywhere we find people who are dissatisfied with their lot, who think they would be happy if they could only get somewhere else, into some other occupation. They see only the thorns in their own vocations, the roses in those of others. The shopgirl would be an actress; the cook would change places with her mistress, the butler with his master. The lawyer would be a doctor, the doctor a lawyer. The farmer bemoans his hard lot and longs to exchange his life of drudgery for the career of the merchant or the manufacturer. The country boy leans on his plow handle and looks toward the city with hungry eyes. If he could only be free from the slavery of the farm, he thinks, wear good clothes, get hold of a yardstick and stand behind a counter! Happiness, opportunity, fortune—everything, lies yonder; around him misery, toil, poverty—nothing desirable. A city youth behind a counter or sitting on a high office stool rails at fate for confining him to the limits of brick walls and the dreary details of merchandise, buying and selling, or of figuring up accounts. Oh, if he could only go to sea and travel to distant countries, become a captain in the navy or skipper or owner of a merchant vessel! Life would be worth something then. But now—

How much energy has been lost, how many lives have been spoiled by this fruitless longing for other fields, other opportunities out of reach. What is the use of sighing or dreaming of what you would do if you were in somebody else's place? What is the use of trying to reach into your neighbor's pasture when you do not know what bitterness may lie at the root of it, hidden from your sight, when you have never tried to develop or to call out the sweetness and juiciness which thrive in your own?—O. S. Marden in Success.

Hats, Boots and Hearts.

Mrs. Nolan had made some disparaging remarks about the costume of her husband's bosom friend, Mr. Herlihy, and they were promptly resented.

"'His hat is turning green wid age,' is it?" said Mr. Nolan, with fine scorn, "and his boots is rusty and cracked lookin',' did I hear ye say? Listen now to me, Mary Nolan. If ivery man's hat an' boots covered as warrm a hearrt as Phelim Herlihy's there'd be more prou wimmin in the worrld!"

Meeting of Mermaid Club.

An important meeting of the "Mermaid Club" was held Thursday evening at the home of Mr. Harry Keller. At which time resolutions were placed on the rolls in hearty recognition of the ability, efficiency and wit of the officers who have served for the last year, who were Mr. William Parker Wharton as president, and Dr. Frank Clifton Smith as secretary.

Mr. John Meyer, one of the original founders, was chosen to be the president of the club for the coming year and Mr. Harry Keller as secretary.

Two new members were elected. Judge Ellis L. Orvis and Mr. John Blanchard.

Although this is the last literary meeting to be held while the club is still intact. They are looking forward to two special occasions, at which a few choice spirits are to be temporarilly admitted to enjoy their intimacy and fellowship as members "pro tem." At this meeting the choice of courses of study with which to begin work in the autumn was also a matter of discussion.

Was Henry Vaughn, Sir John Denham, the author of Coopers Hill and John Cleveland, all of Cavalier poets the last the most popular poet of his day more esteemed in his generation than Milton himself.

The Pennsylvania Branch of the Shut--in Society.

The Shut-in Society was organized in New York City in 1877, for the purpose of bringing comfort and good cheer, by means of letters, visits and other tokens of remembrance, into the lives of those "shut-in" by chronic illness from the busy world.

The Society consists of Shut-in Members, who are expected to pay fifty cents a year; Associates, who are the active members, and who pay One Dollar a year, and Annual Subscribers, who also pay One Dollar a year. The "Open Window" is the magazine of the Society, and is sent to all members on payment of their annual fees.

The Pennsylvania Branch of the Shut-in Society was organized in 1902, for the advancement of the work in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and has proved a complete success, the spiritual and practical sides of the work being evenly balanced. The Shut-ins in the State now number 202, Associates 168, and Subscribers 68.

Several flourishing Exchanges are maintained in Philadelphia by the Branch, for the sale of articles made by the invalid members of the Society. These exchanges are open to the work of all Shut-in members, of whatever State. Wheel chairs and hot water bags are sent out by the Branch to members in the State, while numberless wonder bags, bundles of sick pieces and birthday cards are some of the gifts from the Branch which serve to gladden the sick room.

It is the desire of the Branch to know of any invalids in this State or West Virginia to whom the Society could bring good cheer; also any who wish to become Associate or Subscribing members of the Society. Those desiring a copy of the "Open Window," or any further information in regard to the Society, may obtain both by writing to the Chairman of the Branch, Miss Mary Parker Nicholson, 3610 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia Penna.

The Focht Iniquity

We cannot refrain from commending the judges of the supreme court who dissented from the finding of that tribunal in the matter of the legality of the Focht ballot law, nor can we withhold praise for Judge Dean, one of the oldest and ablest of the supreme court judges, for the wisdom displayed in giving to the citizens of the state the season for the dissent, "Making it easy for one section of voters who desire to vote a straight party ticket, on which no mistake could be made, and hampering and obstructing intelligent voters who desire to vote, independent of party, for men, destroyed the freedom and equality of votere." And this is just what was aimed at in the villainous Focht bill. The machine leaders, seeking to entrench themselves as firmly in power as possible, connived and conceived the Focht law and rammed it through the legislature. It is reprehensible that machine-made judges should so far forget their duty to their commonwealth to give this Satan-conceived law the last semblance of constitutionality, and yet the people do not murmur, allowing whatever reproach follows the exposure to rest upon those newspapers who risk their money and business to bring Pennsylvania into her own.

A Most Singular Egg.

John Watson, the well known huckster of Lamar, in Porter township, in gathering his duck eggs found one of such extra size that he gave it to his former neighbor, but now a resident of this city, A. D. Porter, who measured and weighed it and found that its size was 8x8½ inches and weighed 5¼ ounces.

Upon breaking the egg a most singular formation was discovered, for inside was found another fully developed egg containing yolk and white and surrounded by a shell of usual hardness. Inside the outer shell and surrounding the inner egg was a quantity of white but no yolk.

To the individual who is not away up in eggology this seems to be a freak of makeup most uncommon.

This is printed and can be vouched for as a true story although some skeptical ones are most ready to hint that Mr. Watson must have a way of his own of producing duck eggs and this one was an overproduction.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Clerk-Carriers Examination, Bellefonte May. 31 1905:

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that on the date and at the place named above an examination will be held for the positions of clerk and carrier in the Post-Office Service.

This examination offers an opportunity to bright, energetic young persons to enter an interesting field of Government employment where the salaries compare most favorably with those paid in private employment.

The salary of letter carriers in all cities which contain a population of 75,000 or more is arranged in three classes: First class, $1,000 per annum; second class, $800 per annum; and third class, $600 per annum. In cities containing less than 75,000 population there are two classes: Second class, $850 per annum, and third class, $600 per annum. Appointments of letters carriers are made to the class having the minimum rate of pay and promotion from the lower grades are made to the next higher grade at the expiration of one year's service, on certificate of the postmaster to the efficiency and faithfulness of the employee during the preceeding year. A substitute letter carrier receives a compensation of $1 per annum and the pro rata compensation of the carrier whose route he may be required to serve. A vacancy in the regular force of carriers must be filled by the promotion of the senior substitute. A substitute clerk is paid a rate of compensation not exceeding the compensation of the absent clerk or employee whose place he takes. The salaries of clerks at the post-offices vary according to the class of work to be performed and the size of the office, but range from $400 to $1,000 in the smaller offices to as high as $1,700 per annum in the larger offices. All original appointments of clerks are made at the minimum salaries.

The examination will consist of spelling, arithmetic, letter writing, penmanship, geography, reading addresses.

Age limit, all positions, 18 to 45 years.

All applicants, male and female, must have the medical certificate in the application blank executed. Male applicants must be at least 5 feet 4 inches in height in bare feet, and weigh not less than 125 pounds.

The Post-Office Department has stated that no person who is defective in any of the following-named particulars will be appointed in the postal service: Deaf-mutes; hunchbacks; persons having defective hearing, sight, or speech; persons totally blind or blind in one eye, one-armed, one-handed, or one-legged persons, or those having crippled arms or legs; and those suffering from asthma, consumption, hernia, or any other physical defect or disease which would prevent a proper discharge of the duties of the position.

All persons who have been examined for the position of clerk or carrier within the past year and failed to pass may be re-examined upon filing new applications in due time.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements.

From the eligibles resulting from this examination it is expected that certification will be made to existing and future vacancies.

For application blank, full instructions, specimen examination questions, and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, and the location of the examination room, application should be made to the secretary of the board of examiners at the post-office.

Applications will be accepted for this examination by the secretary of the board up to the hour of 4.30 p. m. May 27, 1905 at Philadelphia, Pa.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right
C. M. Parrish

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Overconfident Fish

"Of all the fish in all the sea there's none so very smart as me," sang the swordfish.

"If you were really as smart as you think you are, you would sing, 'Of all the fish beneath the sky there's none so very smart as I,'" declared the mud dabbler. "Your grammar isn't very good."

"Well, I'm smart, anyway," declared the swordfish. "I shall never be caught by any of these fishermen with a funny little worm on a hook. I'm too smart for that."

And then he went darting around beneath the boats of the fishermen who had come out from the shore with their hooks and lines and nets to catch fish.

Every now and then the swordfish would go to the surface of the water and jump up into the air to show himself to the men and let them know what a beautiful fish there was that they could not catch. He went as near the boats as he could, too, so everybody could have a good view of him.

"THEY'LL NEVER CATCH ME."

"I would like to have that fish," said one of the men, "but he won't bite at any of my lines."

"I'll get him for you," replied an old fisherman, as he picked up a stout stick from the bottom of the boat.

Then the very next time that the swordfish darted into the air the old fisherman reached over and dealt him a hard blow with the stick, and Mr. Fish fell into the boat with his senses knocked out.

Moral.—There's more than one way to catch a fish.—Detroit Journal.

Marinating Steak.

A correspondent asks for directions for marinating round steak to make it tender. Equal quantities of salad oil and vinegar, or, better still, lemon juice, makes a good marinade. Two tablespoonfuls each of the oil and the vinegar well mixed and seasoned is poured into a platter, and the steak is turned several times in the mixture. Leave it to soak for at least six hours. The French make a very elaborate marinade, which gives the meat a delicious flavor. Finely slice a white onion and place it in the dish with several slices of lemon, a bay leaf, a few whole peppers, two cloves, a bit of mace and a sprig of parsley pulled apart with the fingers. Add the oil and vinegar and stir well together.—New York Post.

Enlarged Pores.

For enlarged pores a hot face bath at night is first necessary, always followed by a cold plunge. A few drops of benzoin in the water will aid a cure, and should the face require cleansing during the day some astringent lotion should be used, such as the following: One-half pint of lilac flower water, four ounces of alcohol, two and a half ounces of glycerin, two ounces of sweet almonds (powdered) and one-quarter ounce salicylic acid. Add almonds to perfumed water and shake vigorously. Then add glycerin and the other ingredients and agitate thoroughly. Apply during the day and at night with a soft cloth.

Position In Bed.

Do you ache in the morning? If that is the case the chances are that it is due to a habit of lying in bed in a wrong position. The only position for resting is that which relieves the muscles and joints. This is the one called "extension." Very few persons realize that to rest thoroughly the muscles should be relaxed. Another mistake is to have the bed hard. If it causes aching be very sure that you need to have it softer. Do not make a martyr of yourself for the opinions set forth by some spectacled professor. He will not bear your aches and pains.

A Wonderful Knife.

The collection of a famous firm of cutlers in Sheffield, England, includes what is by some considered to be the most valuable knife in the world. It is large enough to fit in the pocket of none but a giant, and it contains seventy-five blades, which close up like those of an ordinary knife. Each of the larger blades is elaborately engraved, and among the subjects of these strange pictures are views of Sheffield college, the city of York, Windsor castle, Arundel castle and a score of other famous scenes. The hafts are of mother-of-pearl, carved with great skill. On one side the artist has depicted a stag hunt and on the other a boar hunt.

SHOWMENS' SORROW.

somersaults, three in number, from sitting position to feet, are a puzzle to the scientific world viewed in the light of the law of gravitation. Wm. DuMott and Miss Edna turn backward somersaults on the bare backs of racing thoroughbreds. A company of U. S. Regular army cavalry men do fancy drills and daring riding. There are strong men and women that outdo Sampson of old and Sanoon of the present.

The hippodrome track presents races of all kinds. Records are daily broken. Forty clowns keep patrons in constant laughter. At the head of these is Harry Green, whose impersonations are the talk of the critics of humor. The John Robinson circus in a word is by far the best ever at Bellefonte, in short that ever invaded the State of Pennsylvania.

THE MENAGERIE.

The John Robinson menagerie is a collection of wild animals, birds, reptiles and strange people from every clime. All parts of the globe contribute. The baby lions, the baby leopards, and the baby antelopes are an amusement feast for ladies and children.

THE INDIANS

Early Sundev morning the Indians with the show climbed the steep mountain back of the circus lot, and did the death dance. Princess Chinqurilla received a message Saturday that her father, Chief Lone Bear, had died. The Indian custom is to do the death dance on the death of the father of a Princess on the first Sunday thereafter. It consists in a wild turning round and round, a hard tramping on sharp rocks and war-hoops that frighten, At the conclusion of the dance the Indians scatter green leaves over the sharp rocks that are dampened with blood from the soles of their bare feet. The wounds thus made quickly healed and the soreness eradicted by the liberal use of an oil made from rattlesnakes.

LITTLE BABIES ARRIVE

A baby antelope was born Sunday afternoon. It was named "Elmira" in honor of that city and it was formally christened their Tuesday. On Monday another antelope was born. Manager Robinson named it "Bellefonte" after our city.

It was formally christened at noon Monday. Three leopards born Sunday morning were named. "Zim" after Zimmerman the great cartoonist of Judge; "Fassett" after Hon. J Sloat Fasset, of Elmira, and "Hig" after Gov. Higgins of New York.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Tree Climbing Camel

Charles Henry Camel was one of the most progressive animals in all the realm of the king of beasts. He was not satisfied to accept things as he found them, but constantly aimed to put himself in a better position. And this is a very commendable trait at most times.

So when Charles Henry heard that the circus parade was going to pass his way he decided that he would climb a tree and view the long line of cages and the brass bands which would be in the procession from this elevated standpoint. He had never climbed a tree, but he thought if others could he could too.

Therefore when the first blare of trumpets was heard afar off he set his forefeet against a sycamore and tried to draw himself up into the branches.

His feet slipped, and as a reward he received a sound bump on the nose. He tried again and got another bump.

All this time the sound of music and of rumbling cages grew nearer, and Charles Henry made a mighty effort and succeeded in drawing himself about half way to a lower limb.

Then came the parade, and Charles Henry, who only kept his position with the greatest effort, gazed down in satisfaction. But as the second band passed the poor old camel found he could hold on no longer, and down he dropped.

Boom, boom, kerplunk! He went square into the middle of the big bass drum. And then you may be sure there was trouble. Poor Charles Henry was set upon by the whole circus and was beaten and belaid until he was black and blue.—Worcester Post.

Candlesticks and Lamps.

Candlesticks and lamps made of glass after the old models are very welcome after the long period we had to endure the china and gilt banquet lamp with ballet girl skirt shade. When fitted with empire shades to match the color scheme of a room they look extremely well. The glass candlesticks are especially good for table decoration and when surmounted by a colored shade make a table very attractive.

Liquid Rouge.

A vegetable liquid rouge is made of one-half ounce of Brazil dust and six gills of water. Let the two boil for five minutes in an earthen vessel (not metal) and strain. When cold add three drams of isinglass, one-half ounce of powdered alum, one dram of cochineal and one and one-half drams of borax. Bring all the mixture to a boil again and let simmer gently for five minutes. Then strain through a very fine cloth.

Harmonious Coloring.

Harmonious coloring does not necessarily imply a room where everything matches. The monotonous rooms of twenty years ago are no longer considered good style. A room is far more satisfactory when it does not proclaim its color, when walls, rugs, furniture, pictures and small articles make a satisfactory whole and no one part is unduly prominent.

Tablecloths.

Linen tablecloths keep white much better if instead of being washed with the other clothes they are rubbed through, scalded and put into the sudsing water before other pieces. Linen irons more easily if well shaken free of wrinkles before being hung on the line.

The Finest Virtue.

The time to teach truthfulness is childhood. And the way to teach it is never, never, never to make your child for an instant afraid to tell the truth about anything whatever—anything he does, anything he thinks.—Saturday Evening Post.

Cucumber is one of nature's cosmetics. Try using a slice of cucumber instead of soap for washing your face. Don't throw away the rind. Boil it and use the water for washing your face.

Zealous young housekeepers sometimes make the mistake of cleaning paint with sand soap. Don't. It only scratches the paint. The other soap will do the work.

Clean out closets and bureaus with turpentine water and use generous proportions of the turpentine. It's a prevention against moths.

If you put matting down be sure the floors are thoroughly dry before it is laid.

A small show visited our town on Saturday evening, and collected some of the money which our people need, and some of them will deprive themselves of things more profitable, to be at the "show." And a number of our people went to Bellefonte on Monday to the show there, yet there is great diffiulty in supporting the churches because "money is too scarce."

Some people who have seen a large derrick standing in a field just below town have, no doubt wondered when drilling would begin. The delay was caused by the refusal of some of the adjacent property holders to lease their lands. This obstacle having been overcome the party who is to do the drilling put in their appearance one day last week and on Saturday teams were busy hauling the machinery from the station to the derrick and soon the thump of the drill will be heard. It is to be hoped that they will strike something rich whether it be oil, gas or minerals.

Port Matilda.

A very pretty wedding took place at the first farm east of our town at the home of the bride, Miss Mary Spotts on May 18th, Mr. Calvin Weston and Miss Mary Spotts were united in marriage by Rev J. B. Durkee, M. E. minister, on last Wednesday. Their connection being very large on both sides they received a very handsome lot of presents. The next day Mr. Weston was seen at home on his farm working. Their won't be any time lost, will there Cal.

Victor Weston, of Trafford City, attended his brothers wedding and visited his parents several days and left on Sunday evening.

The way the Standard Oil Co. made their millions was by selling us coal oil. Every time we consume a gallon of coal oil we add to their millions. The Sunlight "Omega" light machine works automatically, no trouble and so simple to operate that anyone can learn how to make the light in ten minutes. WOMAN'S WORLD

MRS. SARAH D. WINANS.

One of the Earnest Workers of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Mrs. Sarah D. Winans of Toledo, ex-president of the National Woman's Relief corps, is the daughter of the Rev. John Darst, a German Baptist minister, who was among the earlier settlers of Miami county, O. The wife of a gallant soldier, Colonel J. Cory Winans, who was wounded in the defense of the flag, her interest in the W. R. C. has been sincere and loyal.

When the nation's great fratricidal combat broke out Mrs. Winans was among the first to organize an aid society under the Christian sanitary commission. They sent no end of needful things to the field hospitals, and they also secured liberal donations to the great sanitary fair at Cincinnati.

It is said that since the organization of the Woman's Relief corps Mrs. Winans has never missed a department or national convention.

Mrs. Winans is thus described: "A woman in the prime of life, who served her way up through the various offices of succession, from subordinate corps to the head of the department, and on committees of state and national importance, she is thoroughly versed in every phase of relief corps work. She is thorough, systematic, thoughtful and kind, and among all the grand women who have conducted department affairs none has administered them more wisely or well or wielded the gavel with a better grace. Modest, retiring and slow to speak, she is always ready for duty and equal to the occasion, whatever it may be."—Boston Traveler.

Taking the Initiative.

Are the new century women beginning to take the initiative in their intercourse with the opposite sex? Do they not ask men to do this and that instead of waiting until the men ask them, as was customary in the days of their mothers and grandmothers?

"If we did we should have a long time to wait," laughed a pretty maiden whose invitation on the telephone to a young man to come up and take tea with her had been overheard by her grandmother and had prompted the foregoing remarks. "Why, men would never come near you unless you made appointments with them," she continued, defending her position. "I'm sure I would much rather have Ned Smith call me up on the telephone and ask if he might be allowed to come up and take a cup of tea with me this afternoon, but he wouldn't. He would never think of it. But if I ask him he likes to come. I know that. When he comes I shall inquire if he is going up the river to Carrie M.'s wedding on Saturday. Perhaps then he will ask me to go up in his automobile, but if he does not I shall say I think it is just lovely going up by auto, and then probably he will think of it.

"Do you know," she continued, "it is perfectly true what you said just now? When I come to think of it, girls do always take the initiative nowadays. The nice ones do it so nicely that you hardly see it, but they do it all the same, and the men just wait for them to suggest everything. Otherwise they would go off by themselves and not remember anything about us."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

THEY NEVER FAIL.

That is What They say About Them in Bellefonte, and it is Therefore, Reliable.

Another proof, some more evidence, Bellefonte testimony to swell the long list of advocates who endorse the old Quaker remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this convicting endorsement of the claims made for that remarkable preparation:

Mrs. Emma J. Davis, of 246 E. Logan St., says: "I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right.

Street Loafing.

There is nothing more injurious to the welfare, the morals and the general appearance and reputation of any town than constant crowds of ablebodied men and boys loafing on the streets. The habit of idleness engendered by this custom are most detrimental, especially to the growing boy.

If the loafers have no work or do not care to seek any, at least they could employ time in active, healthful, outdoor sports to much better advantage than by blocking thoroughfares and subjecting passersby to untold annoyance and unpleasant comments. Then, again, it does not speak well for the business activities of a town when its streets are filled with idle, irresponsible men and boys in working hours while the moral condition of a community, where street loafing is not frowned upon, is certainly not apt to be of a high order. The old adage as to the working power of that three-fold combination of idle hands. Satan mischief, does not lose its point along with modern civilization.

Land of Twins and Triplets

Scotland is the land of twins and triplets, holding a long lead over her sister countries in this matter. In 12 months no fewer than 1,625 mothers gave birth to twins and twenty-five presented triplets. Scotland is among the few countries of Europe where the proportion of male babies is greater than of females. Striking an average, it is found that there are about 104 males to every 100 females. but the surplus of grown up girls is nevertheless large, as so many men travel south and apparently neglect to take the precaution to obtain return tickets to the Land of Cakes. There is yet another interesting fact about Scotland. It is the land of hale old age. Recent returns show that during one year 676 people died between the ages of 90 and 100.

Strictly Genuine.

Most of the patent medicine testimonials are probably genuine. The following notice recently appeared in the Atchison, (Kan.,) Globe: "Joe Tack, a well known engineer. running on the Missouri Pacific between Wichita and Kiowa, lately appeared in a big one, with a picture, and when he was in this office to-day, we asked him about it. He says he had terrible pains in his stomach, and thought he had cancer. His druggist recommended Kodol and he says it cured him. He recommended it to others, who were also cured." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures all stomach troubles. Just as surely as the sun shines your stomach can be brought back to its original pure condition and life sweetened by this lasting and truly the greatest digestant known. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

A Good Law.

The act passed by the last legislature having for its object the suppression of epidemics, the prevention of diseased and the protection of human life, and which a few days ago received the approval of Governor Pennypacker, is favorably commented upon by the medical profession. The bill gives financial assistance during epidemics and makes it possible for bankrupt boroughs and townships to take immediate steps to prevent the spread of disease. Although the appropriation that has been made is not large it is believed that it will be sufficient to demonstrate the benefit of such an act.

Memorial Day.

The day is nearly at hand when loving friends strew the graves of their departed ones with flowers, when hoary headed veterans march once more to inspiring melodies on their mission of loving remembrance, when a nation bows its head in grief for the heroes who offered up their all upon the altar of their native land. It is altogether befitting and proper that this be done. Bellefonte has observed this day with appropriate ceremonies for many years, and it is to be hoped our townspeople will in every possible way aid in making the event this year one of the most memorable yet held.

Good Boys

Are the bad boys very often. The boy that's good for anything is generally pugnacious. He's a healthy animal, and the healthy animal will always fight for his rights.

When a boy shuns the rough sports of his companions he is apt to be a weakling, and to be conscious of the fact.

A great many mothers have testified to the wonderful curing and strengthening power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. All strength comes from food after it has been perfectly digested and assimilated. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the perfect nourishment of the body, which is thus built up in the only way a body can be built up—by food.

There is no alcohol in "Discovery," and it entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartrick, of Demster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had one in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

COMMITTEE WANTS CORRECT NAMES.

In order to secure absolute accuracy in the names and spelling thereof on our soldiers' monument, we will publish from time to time the lists of certain companies so as to enable those who are interested to suggest changes in initials or spelling, and also to suggest the names of any persons who may have been omitted from the rolls. This is the last opportunity which will be given to our people and to the survivors or friends of deceased soldiers who served from Centre county to have these names corrected. The Committee, therefore, appeals very earnestly to all who are interested in the subject to carefully scan all the names to ascertain 1st, whether any have been omitted; and 2nd, whether the names of those already contained in the rolls are properly spelled.

It is also very important that the names of soldiers who enlisted in organizations outside of the county or State should be secured, in order that they may find their place among the nation's defenders upon the monument. This is perhaps the most important thing which the Committee has in charge, the organization from our own county being already well known. If, therefore, any person, in or out of the county, has knowledge of a citizen of Centre coonty who enlisted in organizations outside of the county and State, it is especially important that their names should be ascertained, so that they may find a place among those who enlisted at home.

Any communications in regard to these names addressed to Gen. John I. Curtin or William H. Musser, Bellefonte, will receive prompt attention.

Restrained From Polluting Streams.

The supreme court Tuesday upheld an injunction granted by the Northumberland county courts restraining the Penn anthracite Coal company, of Pittsburg, from polluting a stream of that county. The supreme court in affirming the county court in two cases said: "This case is to restrain the defendant from pumping impure water which has accumulated in a coal mine into a stream where it polluted the supply of drinking water for more than 30,000 persons, when by the construction of a flume the mine water could be diverted into another course where it could injure no one. The case is clearly one for the granting of a preliminary injunction."

Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson Entertains.

Thursday evening in spite of cool breezes and threatening clouds found the spacious home of Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson filled with her friends. It was the occasion of her "annual party" which has become so well established it will go down in the history of the town. These annual meetings are delightfully sociable and enjoyed by all who are fortunate enough to be there, and by no one more than by the generous hearted Hostess herself. As more than one remarked "It is the happiest night of the year for Mrs. Johnson when she gathers her friends around her." Thursday night the display of handsome new gowns, and the many really handsome women whose attractiveness was enhanced by the beautiful floral decorations of the parlors made the assemblage a very attractive one.

The refreshments furnished by our celebrated caterer, Joseph Ceader, were even finer than usual. One envies Mrs. Johnson in her popularity with the young ladies who give an added charm to the occasion and so beautifully assist her in entertaining her guests by making themselves "useful as well as ornamental" May the Hostess live to celebrate many similar occasions, and may we all be there to share the enjoyment with her, doubtless expresses the wish of all who were present.

Will Cure Consumption.

Too Much Booze Killed Him.

George Wray, a lumberman employed at a lumber camp ten miles from White Deer, died some time Sunday night, after a severe attack of mania a potu. He had been away during the day, visiting a neighboring camp, and came back Sunday night in a badly intoxicated condition. It was some time before he was quieted, but he was finally left sleeping in his bunk. Monday morning one of the men laughingly suggested taking a look at the "dead man," and those who followed his suggestion found that his words literally told the truth. Wray was dead.

The Sad Death of Herbert McIntosh.

Many of our readers remember Herbert McIntosh, who a few years ago was a student at the Bellefonte Academy and they will learn with sincere regret the sad intelligence of his death which occurred as the result of a drowning accident. The young man was the son of Dr. D. F. McIntosh of Sharpesburg, Pa., and was down in Maine looking after some lumber lands in which his father was interested. On May 8th while out in a small skiff, off the coast of Maine, on a fishing expedition, the boat capsized and McIntosh was drowned. Later his body was recovered and sent to his home at Sharpesburg where on the evening of May 15 at 8 o'clock the funeral services were held. Tuesday morning May 16 a private burial took place; interment at Sharpesburg.

During his stay in Bellefonte he became very popular and was a great athlete. He played on the foot ball, base ball and basket ball teams. After leaving the Academy he went to State College and later took a course in medicine at the Western University of Pennsylvania.

He was a clean, manly, gentlemanly fellow, the only son of a grief stricken father, his untimely death is deeply regretted.

Acts of Assembly Pertaining to Schools.

The following act of assembly, which provides a system of humane education, to include kind treatment of birds and animals in our public schools, was approved by the governor on the 27th of March last past:

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., that a system of humane education, which shall include kind treatment of birds and animals, shall be included in the branches of study now required by law to be taught in the common schools; such instruction to be given to all pupils, up to and including the fourth grade of the public schools of the commonwealth, and to consist of not more than half an hour each week during the whole term of the school.

Section 2. That no experiment upon any living creature, to demonstrate in physiology, shall be permitted in any public school of the state.

Section 3. The principal or teacher in every school shall certify, in each of his or her monthly reports to the school board, that such instruction has been given in the school under his or her control.

Section 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

Hot Weather Piles.

Persons afflicted with Piles should be careful at this season of the year. Hot weather and bad drinking water contribute to the conditions which make Piles more painful and dangerous. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve stops the pain, draws out the soreness and cures. Get the genuine, bearing the name of E. C DeWitt & Co. For sale by Green's Pharmacy.

Give Our Town Hoboes A Chance.

"Burgess Walker's invitation of several weeks ago to the tramps to come to Bellefonte, seems to have had the desired result, as the genus hobo is now a rather scarce article in this neighborhood."

The above taken from this morning's Bellefonte Watchman. Why invite tramps to Bellefonte Burgess Walker? when you already allow a more intolerable nuisance to exist under your eyes and the eyes of the Bellefonte police, than any number of tramps can make. A gang of drunken hoodlums, among them, the husband and father of an abused wife and neglected family, the others, young men who might be a credit to the community instead of a disgrace, who accost every man and woman who comes in contact with them for money for whiskey. All of the men alluded to are strong, able bodied individuals and tradesmen with plenty of work but will not do it while they are allowed to beg off the traveling public. A disgrace to the town and the officials in power.

A Revelation.

New Tenant Law.

An important measure, which effects the relation between landlords and tenants, is the Marsteller act, which has recently become a law. It provides that where a tenant shall hold possession of real estate within this commonwealth either by license or lease oral or written, for any time less than one year, or by the month for an inderminate time and the immediate landlord of such real estate shall desire to regain possession thereof from such tenant or occupant, he shall serve upon the tenant or adult member of his family a notice in writing demanding that he require such tenant or occupants to deliver to him the possession of the premises so held within thirty days from the day of service thereof; provided that this act shall not be construed authorizing the dispossession of a tenant before the expiration of his or her lease or license.

Just commenced in the New York Family Story paper

or the adventures of a Female Sherlock Holmes a realistic romance founded on fact by Fanny May. You who have been reading the daily papers can easily imagine how the thought came to the author's mind to write this story. Though purely a romance, many of its most sensational and dramatic scenes are based on fact. It is a startling expose of a wicked man's wiles. This realistic romance begins in No. 1644 of THE NEW YORK FAMILY STORY PAPER.

It's Dangerous To Doubt.

You have no right to doubt a thing that has been tested and found to rest on fact.

Vin-te-na has cured so many people in so many parts of the country that it is really unjust to predict a failure in any case that has gone beyond the power of medicine.

Vin-te-na purifies the blood and makes the nerves strong and steady. It not only cures disease but safeguards the system against every form of germ disease. Most all diseases are rooted in the blood. Vin-te-na cures the very cause of all blood disorders by destroying the impurities in the blood and giving it purity and warmth. Get it and be strong.

—During the storm which passed over Boalsburg Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock lightning struck the Lutheran church, tearing off the roof and ceiling and shattering all the memorial windows in one side of the building. This is a great loss to the congregation who have worked hard and taken great pride in the appearance of their church.

—We understand that the Bell Telephone company contemplates in the near future extending their lines from Rebersburg to Wolf's Store. The eastern end of Brush valley is about the only section in Centre county that has no telephone facilities and when the line is extended it will be of great advantage to the people of that end of the county.

—The new line fence law, which was recently approved by Governor Pennypacker, will be of interest to every property owner in the state. The act provides that each property owner must keep up half of the line fence and if he does not the adjoining property owner can put up the fence and collect the cost for so doing. In case of disputes the township auditors are made the arbitrators. In this capacity township auditors will be important officers hereafter as line fence disputes are numerous.

—The following telegram from Hollidaysburg appeared in Monday's Philadelphia Record: "Wanted—A doctor special inducements to right party. Apply to Board of Health. Gaysport, Pa." Gaysport across the river from Hollidaysburg, has been a borough for 50 years and never had a preacher, lawyer, physician or dentist. Just now it is on a "boom" and civic pride is in evidence. A board of health was organized the other day, with E. P. Dobbins as president and J. J. Cunningham as secretary. The board met and decided a doctor must be brought to town. There is no clamor for the importation of a lawyer, preacher or dentist.

—FIFTH REGT. HOSPITAL CORPS. The fact may not be generally known but is true, nevertheless, that the hospital corps of the Fifth regiment is now located in Bellefonte, due to the untiring efforts of regiment alsurgeon Dr. R. G. H. Hayes. The other members of the corps are Dr. J. Robinson, of State College, Claude Smith, steward and W. W. Gephart, R. Russel Blair, Ed. Kechline, J. Robb, Edmund Hayes and Hugh Crider. The corps is being thoroughly drilled for duty on the field and when the Fifth goes into camp this summer, at Erie, the boys expect to be in fine trim to carry sick or fatigued comrades from the field. On Tuesday they had their ambulance taken to Diehl's shop to have it repaired and freshly painted so that when duty calls they will be ready.

—The new school law recently signed by Governor Pennypacker is very strict in the regulations in regard to light, heat, ventilation and floor space in buildings costing over $4,000. The regulation in regard to light stipulate that it must come from the left or from the left and rear, and the light area must exceed 25 per cent. of the floor space in each room. Indirect heating arrangements, which will maintain a temperature of an average of 70 degrees in the school room in the coldest days of winter is required, while the ventilation system must be capable of supplying at least 36 cubic feet of fresh air per minute for each pupil. A floor space of at least 15 feet must be allowed for each pupil, which would mean that a class of 40 would require at least 600 feet of floor space or a room 20x30 feet.

—A part of the Knights Templar Conclave program at Williamsport was for the visiting ladies only and proved a most delightful feature of the occasion. On Tuesday afternoon carriages were provided for a drive to all interesting points in and about the City and at 4 o'clock the ladies were given an automobile ride starting from the Park Hotel. The Sir Knights of Williamsport spared neither time nor expense to make things pleasant for visiting Sir Knights and their ladies.

—A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Young, of Port Matilda, on the evening of May 20th, when Mr. Harry Marshall, of State College, and Miss Adah B. Williams, of Port Matilda, were united in marriage by the Rev. A. C. Lathrop. It was generally known that the wedding was soon to be, but only a few intimate friends knew when. The groom is a son of E. H. Marshall, of State College. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Williams, of Port Matilda. Both bride and groom are very much esteemed and many friends wish them a long and happy life.

—The Rt Rev. Eugene A. Garvey, of Altoona, bishop of the Altoona diocese, took the first step of a long journey last week, when he left Altoona for Scranton and other points in the eastern end of the state to visit relatives. Bishop Garvey then went to Boston, where he joined those who accompanied him to Italy. The party sailed direct to Naples, leaving Boston Saturday. The bishop of the local diocese was accompanied to the eternal city by the Most Rev. Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, Manager Kennedy of the American college in Rome, and Rev. John McCourt, rector of the Church of Our Mother of Sorrows in Philadelphia.

—The Woman's Home Companion for June has for its cover one of de Longpre's beautiful rose studies, and all the papers are filled with the spirit of the early summer. "Sacajawea, the Bird-Woman," is one reminder of this; Mrs. Sangster's "Wedding Bells" another; "A Bungalow That Can Be Built for $600.00" sounds very pleasant; while the fashion notes are of special interest to the June bride and the girl graduate. The short stories, too, are particularly adapted to summer reading—"A Knight of To Day," "Larry's Angel," "A Suburban Burglar" and "The Stillson Mill," "The Girl Diver of the Great Lakes" and "The Living Sacrifice of the Carmelite Nun" are especially rich in illustrations as well as the interest of their subject matter. In a culinary way Mrs. Herrick tells what to have for the Sunday-night supper in hot weather, and Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill gives her "Twelve Favorite Recipes." Regular departments are quite up to their usual high standard—the "Pages for Boys and Girls," the 'Puzzle Page.' "Half-Minute Paragraphs," etc. Published by the Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield. Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

Mrs. Hannah Stauffer, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ambrose Schmidt, left Wednesday for her home in Chambersburg. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs Schmidt and the latter's little son, William, who will visit her for several weeks.

TWENTY YEARS' SLEEP.

Rip Van Winkle's Case May Have Been More Fact Than Fiction.

Even superficial students of folklore know that the tale of Rip Van Winkle, supposing that Irving really heard it in the old Dutch settlements along the Hudson, is by no means peculiar to that district, but is found in some form or other all over the world. In other words, the idea that it is possible for a human being to survive in a state of unconsciousness for a very long time would seem to be either a universal fancy or to be founded on some actual experience.

Dr. Lancereaux in the Paris Bulletin of the Academy of Medicine reports such an experience, the case of a woman who actually did, so far as intelligent consciousness was concerned, sleep almost exactly twenty years.

The patient, of a neurotic and hysterical family, had always been delicate and nervous. On May 31, 1883, she was severely frightened and fell into violent hysteria, which after twenty-four hours passed into unconsciousness. In this condition, interrupted every month or six weeks by sudden convulsive attacks, she lay until May 23, 1903, kept alive entirely by injections of nourishment.

On May 23 she was seized with hysteria similar to that at the beginning of her sleep, and the next day there was another convulsion. On May 25 she began definitely to recover consciousness and by the next day was able to speak intelligently of events before her sleep and could also remember from day to day since her waking. Of happenings during her sleep, such as the drawing of some of her teeth, she knew nothing. On the evening of May 28 she died peacefully.

The particular case is of interest chiefly to the medical profession, but the general fact of survival in unconsciousness for a very long time shows how such tales as those of the Sleeping Beauty, the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus and Rip Van Winkle, to mention only the most familiar examples, could have originated from actual experience and observation. Very likely such cases occurred more than once.

"Truth is stranger than fiction," runs the old saying. It is undoubtedly more correct to say that fiction is merely enlarged, reduced, distorted and otherwise decorated fact and that without a fact within general knowledge from which to start fiction could not exist. It is entirely safe to conjecture that at some prehistoric period, sleeping not out of doors, of course, but under shelter, and for many weeks and probably months, if not years, there was a Rip Van Winkle.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Bill Was Not In the Senate.

One of Senator Frye's scintillations as presiding officer, when the Philippine bill was near its passage in the senate, should not be lost to the world. Such measures, till perfected, are considered in committee of the whole, not in the senate, as the term goes. The distinction is of little popular significance, but of great parliamentary importance.

Senator Bacon, wishing to make a certain motion, was informed that the bill was not in the senate, but in committee of the whole.

"Oh, I thought we were in the senate," replied Mr. Bacon.

"We are in the senate," Mr. Frye responded, "but the bill is not."—Washington Post.

Henry VIII. and Puddings.

Bluff King Hal, otherwise Henry VIII. of England, was exceedingly fond of puddings. At one time he gave a certain Mistress Cornwallis a house in Aldgate for herself and her heirs forever "in reward of fine puddings." In King Henry VIII.'s private accounts occur again and again entries of his rewards to different housewives for bringing him puddings. A typical instance runs thus: "Item. The same day paid to the wife that made the king podings at Hampton corte, vis. viijd." This would be about $1.75, but its value was much greater when the entry was made. This love for "fine puddings" explains much in the familiar rotund figure of King Hal.

A Matter of Gender.

The English language is supposed to be very simple in the matter of genders, but foreigners who triumphantly handle questions of gender of inanimate things in their own languages often have their difficulties with the English. A Frenchman recently came to grief over his English. "I fear I cockroach too much upon your time, madame," he remarked politely to his hostess. "En-croach, monsieur," she smilingly corrected him. He threw up his hands in despair. "Ah, your English genders!" he sighed.

Ribbon Bodkin Convenient.

Every well groomed woman takes pleasure in running wash ribbons through her underwear. This ribbon should be purchased in several sizes, as it does not look pretty if used in a width too large for slipping easily through the beading. To avoid curling or turning the ribbon the shopper can now buy a flat bodkin with fine teeth which catch the ribbon at either edge and run it flatly through the beading.

The Bread Slicer.

A kitchen convenience of merit is a bread slicer which cuts bread in slices of any desired thinness. This consists of a wooden frame exactly the size of an ordinary loaf. It is adjustable to fit a curved or a square loaf, and its sides are cut in slices of varying widths. The bread is slipped into the frame, and the bread knife cuts through the space desired. A bacon slicer on the same principle is offered.

A Word About the Gold and White Assembly During the Academy Reception.

The centennial celebration of the Bellefonte Academy will provide many pleasures for those interested in this historic institution, but that number on the centennial program which will probably prove the most entertaining and delightful of all is the "Gold and White Assembly" to be held on Friday evening, June 16, in the armory. A few years ago the Gold and White assembly proved the most successful event of its kind held in Bellefonte for many a day. The centennial dance committee are planning to make the assembly on June 16 eclipse anything of the kind ever held in Centre county. A full orchestra either from Williamsport or Greensburg will furnish the music for all the centennial exercises and for the assembly. So many guests are expected from out of town that it is necessary to adopt a plan to limit the application for tickets to the capacity of the armory. To that end it has been decided by the assembly committee of which Edmund Blanchard Esq., is chairman, to charge everyone, male and female, who enters the armory on that occasion one dollar. Admission will be granted only by presenting tickets on which will be written the names of the bearers.

Mr Blanchard desires all who wish to attend this assembly to send him their names at once. When a comfortable capacity limit has been reached no more tickets will be sold.

Discovery of the Ichthyosaur.

Ichthyosaurus is a name much jested with because it rivals the mastodon as a most widely known fossil, dating back to its discovery by Sir Edward R. Home, between 1814 and 1819, in the marine deposits of Lyme-Regis, England. The name, signifying "fish lizard," shows that this animal impressed Konig, its describer, as having a fishlike backbone combined with a shoulder girdle of the lizard or saurian type. This term could not have been more happily chosen, because, while retaining the skeleton of an atavistic and extremely ancient lizard, the ichthyosaur evolved a most strikingly modern external likeness to certain very familiar animals of the sea.—Henry Fairfield Osborn in Century.

A Fine Opening For a Young Man.

"Yes," said Mrs. Malone to the old friend who was picking up the threads of family history, "my Bobby, he's traveling with a circus now."

"Pretty hard work, isn't it?" inquired the interested caller.
